IN MEMORY.

Donald (Bud) Weiland

Community Loses a Leader

The unexpected death of Donald P. (Bud) Weiland Monday at a family picnic leaves us with a sadness at losing a friend and a community leader.

Bud Weiland was, first of all, a family man who watched with pride as his children grew to maturity. But through the years he expressed equal concern for his neighbors and friends, and for the community, state and nation in which he lived.

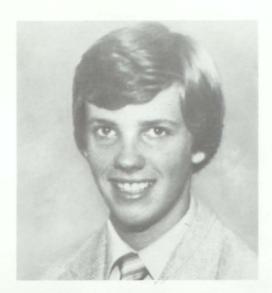

He served at various times as chairman of the local Democratic Party, taking the good times and bad times, with his even-tempered good humor. He was that rare person who is active in politics without making enemies among the opposition. His disarming smile would defuse the situation when political discussions got hot and heavy.

He brought the same level-headed approach to his service on the Lake Central School Board, where he seemed always to understand the human issues involved in the board's decision.

Weiland was also a sports fan, sticking with the local teams through good seasons and bad. He was a familiar figure along the sidelines at the football stadium or a track meet or in the stands at a basketball game, and he played an active part as a local sports booster.

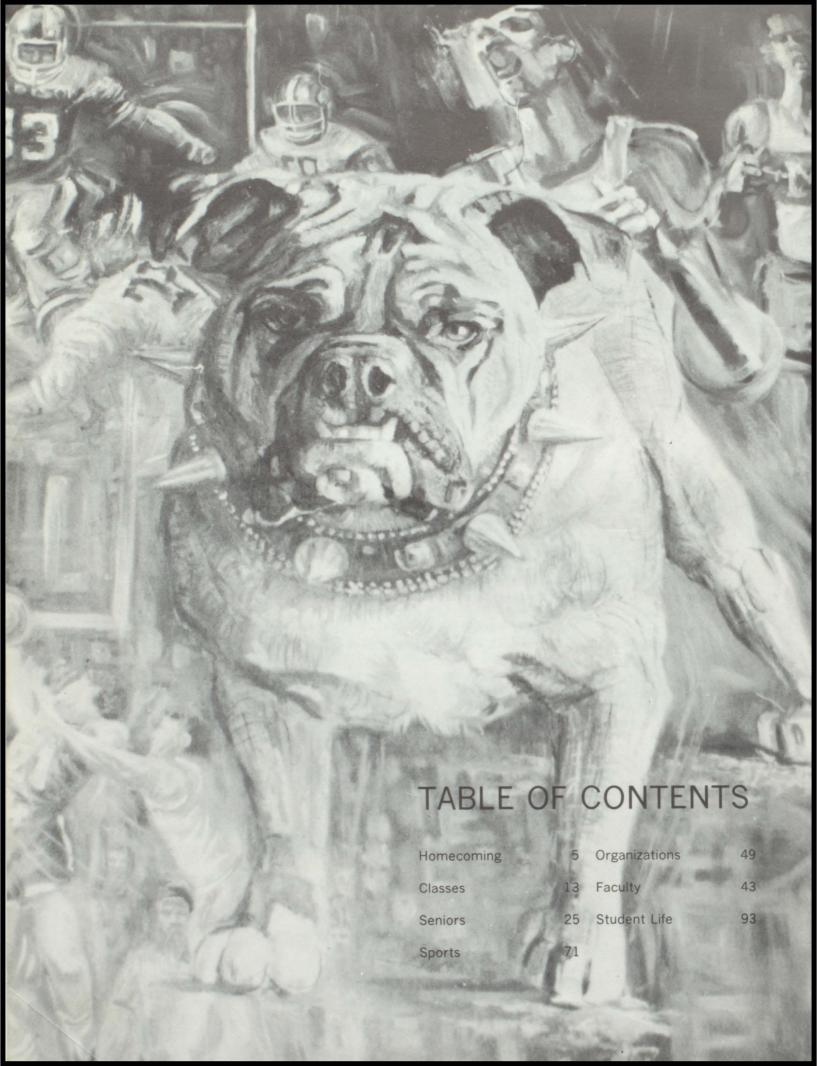

His ready smile and helping hand will be missed by many.

Andy Stensrud

Death is never easy to understand, but when it comes quickly and unexpectedly to someone as young and as full of potential as Andy Stensrud, it is doubly hard to accept. When thinking of Andy, the first things that come to mind are a quick grin and a mischievous twinkle in his eye — much like the first brush strokes of a portrait. Add to that a good mind, a carefree attitude, a distinctive sense of humor, and a unique personality, and the portrait begins to fill in. The background of this portrait could be any number of interesting scenes — playing "D" and "D" with his friends, debating in his suit and tennis shoes because he forgot his dress shoes again, solving the Rubik's cube, demonstrating his juggling ability, pestering his teachers, participating in church activities, sacking groceries or relaxing with his family. No matter what the situation, it is impossible to remember Andy without thinking of that grin and that twinkle, and without smiling yourself with the fondness of your memories.

MHS Homecoming festivities began on Monday, Sept. 28 with a new activity — "No Sweat Day." Students wore sweat clothes to symbolize that it would be no sweat in beating the Eagles on Friday. A talent show was held on Tuesday with Brad Cordts as master of ceremonies.

The next activity taking place during the school day was Hall Day, held on Wednesday. Each class decorated its hall with posters and signs. The winning hall was decorated by the senior class, using the theme of a giant monopoly board. Football players and coaches provided the names of the streets. Also on Wednesday was the Penny-per-player contest.

"Memories are shared forever" was the 1981 Homecoming coronation theme. Coronation ceremonies were held at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 1. Sandy Johannsen was mistress of ceremonies and her escort was Brian Leighton. The 1980 Homecoming royalty, King Kenny Weiland and Queen Lori Hodne, were present to crown the 1981 King Lance Thorson and Queen Paula Oldre. The night ended with a roaring bonfire and cold run down Egan Avenue as part of the Snake Dance.

On the last day of the week, the pep rally, the tug-o-war and the powder puff football game took place. The senior girls won the tug-o-war for the fourth consecutive year to go down in the MHS record book. The winner of the penny-per-player was Nick Pardy. Homecoming festivities ended in a stunning Bulldog victory over the Aberdeen Eagles by the score of 18-13 in a last second touchdown by Jeff Pederson.

The Concert Choir and several small ensembles have presented two major concerts this year including a "Pops" Concert which is new. The Concert Choir, Girls Show Choir, Chamber Singers, and Girls Octet all received superior ratings at District Music Contest. Soloists receiving a superior rating were Mary Hallstrom, Tom Brude, Jennifer Vendkamp, Jim Blanchette, John Opgaard, Jill Lange, and Wendy Johnson. Mary Lou Jackson, director is very pleased with the growth of the department and the progress of the students as vocalists and is looking forward to continued growth in the future.

MHS debate season saw a lot of new faces this year as most of the squad was made up of novice debaters. The season began with a junior varsity squad of Robin Hojnacke, Christy Riedel, Chad Gilbert and Neville Teagarden. Most of this group went on to focus more on individual events as the season went into full swing. On the novice side of the squad MHS fielded two squads consisting of Carmen Means, Ken Meyer, Chad Hilde and Shawn Potts in the A Division. Hani Weber, Nancy Wolf, Cindy Freet and Birgit Olson in the B Division. Later in the season Scott Burton and Brad Palmatier saw some competition. The students in NFL also helped host the Karl E. Mundt Tournament in February. In March the students traveled to Brookings for the East River Student Congress and in April to Pierre for the NFL Student Congress and Model Legislature. Those students who excelled this year in individual events were Carmen Means in Original Oratory and Jim Blanchette in Humorous Interpretation.

Other contests participated in were Aberdeen, Watertown, and Sioux Falls — Washington. Jim won third place in humorous at Watertown. Winners of the local contest, who then proceeded to the Division Contest in Brookings were Jim Blanchette in humor, Carmen Means in oratory, Barb Johnson in poetry, Christy Riedel in dramatics, and Nancy Wolf in prose. All the participants did an excellent job.

The Bulldogs posted a 20 win — 3 loss record to earn for themselves the runner-up position in the ESD Conference. Their only losses came at the hands of Pierre and Rapid City Central who earned the #1 and #2 spots in the State A Tournament.
