Noah Salmen Wins First Place Prize in 26th Annual Business Plan Competition

Two students from Madison High School, Noah Salmen and Paige duRandt, were chosen as finalists in the South Dakota Banker's Foundation's 26th Annual Business Plan Competition.

As part of their Entrepreneurship class, students were required to create a business plan written as if they were to create their own business. The plans were to state where the business would be located, list what was needed for start-up, and project sales and expenses for one month. The plan needed to also include business goals.

First-place winner, Noah Salmen provides locally-grown popcorn in different varieties, each with unique characteristics - gold that produces fluffier popcorn, white that produces less hulls, mauve that produces an even fluffier version, and mini-multi that produces a less fluffy version that appeals to little children. Noah's business plan was developed to include new products and flavors and to market his family's product beyond its existing communities.

Paige duRandt Photography's main goal is to provide high quality digital pictures at affordable prices. Pictures will be sold as enhanced digital that can easily be shared with friends and family. Paige received a runners-up award at the finals in Pierre.

Business Plan Winner

An Educational Field Trip to Pierre

Madison's Student Council gathered at the state capitol in Pierre to watch legislation and view the process during Madison's day to host the legislature. The picture on the right shows the Student Council members and others who joined the trip.

These individuals had the opportunity to sit in on committee meetings, watch the legislative session first-hand in gallery, and meet with the people who represent District 8 and the state. They met with Representative Heinemann, Representative Wollmann, and Senator Parsley. They watched as legislators debated bills such as the teacher pay increase bill that was very controversial in the Spring of 2016.

"The trip was extremely beneficial for me because I learned more about the legislative sessions and got to talk to some inspiring senators and representatives from South Dakota." - Sydney Swenson.

To the Sharks!

Courtney O'Connell (left) and Skylar Dickey perform their roles that a pirate crew would be expected to act, tough and ruthless, as they throw someone overboard.

What Was That?

"Are you sure these are the best we could get?" asks Pirate Captain Rodger Goodman when looking at Libby Andresen, Anne Knofczynski, Raven Wallowing Bull, Emma Martin and Emily Warns for his ruthless pirate crew.

Workin' Hard

Pirates We Are

Who is willing to take the challenge to be a pirate in this year's spring play? Well, Courtney O'Connell (above), Emma Brandenburger (top right), and Ashley Aguirre (right) all stood up for the challenge. Courtney is part of Rodger Goodman's pirate crew. Emma is part of the Pirate Queen's crew. Finally, Ashley is a crew member who is stranded on a deserted island with buried treasure.

A Year to Remember

"It was an unforgettable experience to weigh anchor and hoist the mizzen with all of you guys for the most rip-roaring and rollicking theater adventure of my life. Yo ho ho and a bottle of rum!"

- Melissa Gallien

"It was lovely returning for another year with these wonderful people and meeting new friends. It's a bit saddening to have this as my last play, but I couldn't ask for a better cast to be a part of."

- Jay Knutson

"Becoming involved in Madison High School Plays is a fantastic opportunity that not everybody has. I have valued every minute spent with these enthusiastic and crazy people"

- Elizabeth Andresen

"I enjoyed having dance parties and such."

- Hannah Dreeszen

"My favorite part of being involved with the drama program is the overall atmosphere. Everyone feels like we are a family, and we basically are with the amount of time we spend together. There's nothing that can compare to theater kids getting together to create a production together!"

- Izzy Howell

"My favorite memory was going to the park for practice one day!"

- Emily Knuths

I Will Never Forget

Ashley Briggs told me about her FFA experience and her favorite memory. "Throughout FFA I have been involved in many things. I first took Intro to Ag as a freshman and really enjoyed the class. I participated in SOFY, fruit sales, creed speaking, and floriculture. At the end of my freshman year, other officers and Mrs. Christensen had told me I should fill out an officer application, and so I did. It was one of the best decisions I could have made in my high school career. I was elected to the

Footloose

This year the Madison FFA parade float theme was "Footloose." Students spent the week putting it together so it would be ready for the DSU parade. Twelve students rode down Egan Avenue on the float. # Raku Pottery

Ancient Japanese Pottery Technique

Mrs. Evans' art students were treated to a Raku pottery workshop put on by Tom and Wanda Clarke of Dakota Potter's Supply out of Sioux Falls. Raku is an ancient Japanese pottery technique where hand-made pottery pieces are covered in special glazes and then fired in a kiln and placed on different combustible materials that ignite. The pieces are then covered with metal buckets that deplete the oxygen and forces the glaze into the clay pottery. Combustible materials that may be used include: sawdust, leaves, shredded newspaper, and horse hair. Chemical reactions happen during the cooling process and create beautiful colors with flashes of metallic copper, gold, and silver visible in the pottery.

This year, seventy-six art students participated in the Raku workshop. The Clarkes used the classroom setting to explain the different glazes and how the oxidation reduction process works. The students then glazed their pottery projects. The projects were then taken outside to complete the firing and oxidation process. Combustible materials were prepared and students were allowed to cover their kiln-fired pottery and await the finish product. The unique pottery projects were put on display for public to enjoy.

Classroom Instruction

Cody Winrow and Alexandra Meyer apply special glazes to their pottery after instruction in the Raku technique of finishing pottery while Harly Koenig waits for her turn.

Classroom to Courtroom

Business Law Students Conduct the State vs. Pat Morton Trial

Students in Mrs. Olson's Business Law class used a mock trial this year as their final project to show their understanding of courts and trial procedures. Students needed to become familiar with the role of a trial court from the court procedures to the importance of various people in the courtroom. The trial also gave students the opportunity to practice communication as they prepared and presented their case.

The mock trial used was a theft in the first degree case - the State vs. Pat Morton. Business Law students were each assigned a role in the courtroom. The presiding judge was Tanner Burg; bailiff, Matt Palli; prosecuting attorney, Hunter Jamison; defense attorney, Samantha Langford; witnesses for the prosecution, Martha Aguirre and Katie Bergheim; witness for the defense, Cole Inhofer; and the defendant, Mason Leighton. Once the roles were assigned, each student was given a script and time to prepare their part.

After the preparation time, students from outside of the class were asked to be a part of the jury. Kyla Kasuske, Paige duRandt, and Peityn Roemen served as the jury and were given juror instructions. The mock trial was held and the jury had time to deliberate. The jury came back with a not guilty decision. After the trial and decision, the Business Law students completed debriefing questions and then the class discussed the whole courtroom process.

"Many Things"

Not long after delivering her student message to the graduation audience, Erica Dorsett receives her diploma from school board president, Tom Farrell.

Congratulations, Jason!

School board president, Tom Farrell presents Jason Gale with his high school diploma.

"Why Do We Have to Wait?"

A Little Bling!

Rhinestones are the favorite bling of this year's seniors as they decorate their caps for graduation.

Honor Students

Class of 2016

Our Journey Is Not Over Yet

Another Madison High School Alumni

Amanda Ricke becomes a Madison High School Alumni after receiving her diploma from school board president, Tom Farrell.

"We Rise Again"

Simone Droge (left), Alyssa Jones, Jay Knutson, Bear Shipley, Gabriel Richards, Cole Inhofer, Thomas Gors, Derek Bierschbach, Brandon Johnson, Evan Gross, Ruben Garcia, and Brayden Gilbert, along with the rest of the concert choir share a song with the graduation audience.

"It's Been a Year"

Reflecting on the many experiences of their senior year, Sherif El-Gayar shares some of them with the audience.

Graduation Celebration!

The whole graduating Class of 2016 enjoys some confetti and hat-tossing to celebrate the end of the graduation ceremonies and end of their high school days.

Colophon

The 2016 Bulldog was produced by the Desktop Publishing class of Laurel Appelwick, Sydney Gustaf, Samantha Langford, Hannah Olson, Katie Neises, Nikki Peters, Ashley Wittmer, and Megan Wollmann using Adobe InDesign CS3 Version 5.0.3. The books were printed by the Leader Printing Company with a press run of 100 books with 104 pages each. Books were sold for $60. Kristie Olson was the yearbook advisor. Special thanks to Nancy Kasuske, Karen Giles, Kim Dirks, Shanley Dorris, Rochelle Nowstrup, Jeni Bird, Kathy Young, Robin Schwebach, and SDPB for sharing their photos.

Our Legend Lives On

Sweet Success At Last!

A Winning Smile

Where Are All the Guys?

Are We Ready!

Raelyn Williams, Lindsey Dockendorf, Shayla Rost, and Erin Englert do their best to help the freshmen powder puff football team play at the homecoming activities.
